Oi Duck-billed Platypus!

by Kes Gray

Age 1 to 5. A brilliantly funny, rhyming read-aloud picture book - jam-packed with animals and silliness, from the bestselling, multi-award-winning creators of 'Oi Frog!' Oi! Where are duck-billed platypuses meant to sit? And kookaburras and hippopotamuses and all the other animals with impossible-to-rhyme-with names... Over to you Frog! The laughter never ends with Oi Frog and Friends. Illustrated by Jim Field.

The Edinburgh Art Book
 by Emma Bennett (ED)

Signature Book Representation HB £14.99 9781906860929

The Edinburgh Art Book showcases one of the most beautiful cities in the world. Inspired by Edinburgh's unique architecture, over 50 artists have produced a unique collection of contemporary images illustrating all aspects of the city and surrounding area. The city is shown in a new light through a range of media, from screen print and computer aided design to hand-cut collage.

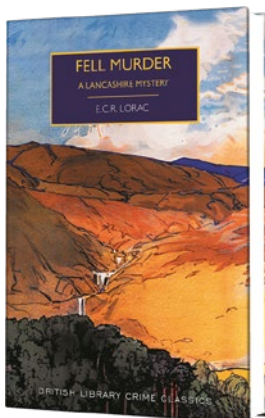

Speak Up
 by Megan Reitz

Pearson Business PB £14.99 9781292263014

How to be heard, hear more and manage difficult situations. What you say or don't say in a conversation can have life-defining consequences on ourselves and those around us. Speak Up helps you to speak up with confidence and enable others to find their voice in a way that will be heard.

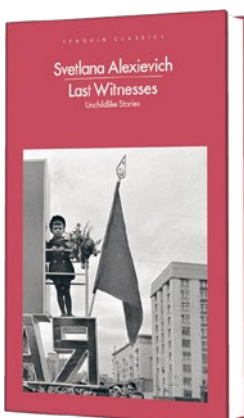

Fell Murder
 by E.C.R. Lorac

British Library PB £8.99 9780712352048

First published in 1944 Fell Murder sees E.C.R. Lorac at the height of her considerable powers as a purveyor of well-made, traditional and emphatic detective fiction. The book presents a fascinating 'return of the prodigal' mystery set in the later stages of the Second World War amidst the close-knit farmerfolk community of Lancashire's lovely Lune valley. The peaceful dales and fells of the north country provide the setting for this grim story of a murder, a setting in fact which is one of the attractive features of an unusual and distinctive tale of evil passions and murderous hate in a small rural community.

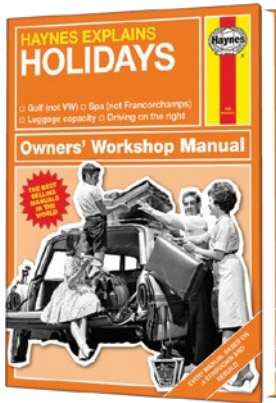

Last Witnesses
 by Svetlana Alexievich

Penguin Press/Classics PB £12.99 9780141983554

Stunning stories about what it was like to be a Soviet child during the upheaval and horror of the Second World War. In the late 1970s, Svetlana Alexievich started interviewing people who had experienced war as children, the generation that survived and had to live with the trauma that would forever change the course of the Russian nation. With remarkable care and empathy, Alexievich gives voice to those whose stories are lost in the official narratives, uncovering a powerful, hidden history of one of the most important events of the twentieth century.

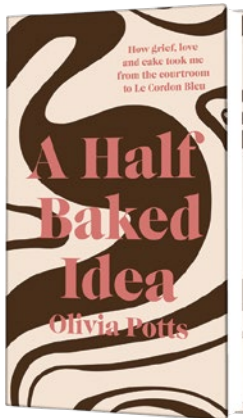

Haynes Explains Holidays by B. Starling

Haynes Publishing Group HB £6.99 9781785216541

Written by bestselling author Boris Starling, Haynes Explains: Holidays is a light-hearted and entertaining take on the classic workshop manual. It contains everything you'd expect to see including exploded views, flow charts, fault diagnosis and the odd wiring diagram. It takes the reader through all areas of holidays, giving all the hints and tips needed to make the entire vacation period run smoothly.

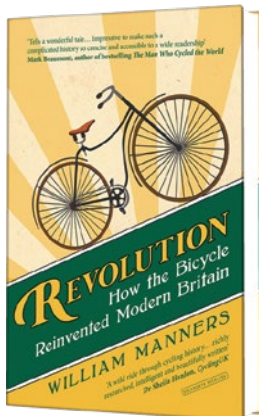

A Half Baked Idea by Olivia Potts

Penguin Books HB £14.99 9780241380451

A heart-warming, exquisitely funny memoir about one woman's journey from the courthouse to Le Cordon Bleu, and from grief to love. At the moment her mother died, Olivia Potts was baking a cake, badly. She wanted to impress the man she was dating, a cooking enthusiast who would later become her husband. Afterwards, grief pushed Olivia into the kitchen. She came home from her job as a criminal barrister miserable and tired, and baked soda bread, pizza, and chocolate banana cake. Her cakes sank and her custard curdled. But she found comfort in jams and solace in pies, and what began as a distraction from grief became a way of building a life outside grief.

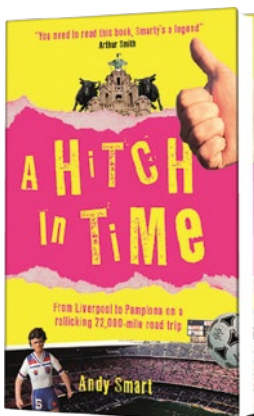

Revolution by Manners William

Prelude Books PB £9.99 9780715653333

How the Bicycle Reinvented Modern Britain. Revolution delves into the social history of cycling in 1890s Britain while exploring international parallels in countries such as the US, France and Australia. Drawing on a range of sources from cycling club journals to the writings of HG Wells, William Manners illuminates the major impact the bicycle had on the day-to-day lives of people across the social spectrum with millions experiencing a cheap and personalised means of transport for the first time. Particularly for women, it was known as the great emancipator from crib, kitchen and convention.

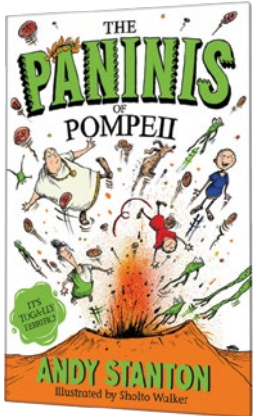

A Hitch in Time by Andy Smart

Aa Publishing PB £12.99 9780749581893

Combining memoir, travel writing, and a wealth of unbelievably hilarious anecdotes, this autobiographical extravaganza chronicles the amazing early life of entertainer Andy Smart. Whether it's running with the bulls in Pamplona, juggling with pig's kidneys, drinking beer on the roof of a fast-moving train or living on the beach in Biarritz, Andy's early life comprised a series of jaw-dropping feats and bizarre situations from which, amazingly, he emerged unscathed to hitchhike to another location and fight another day.

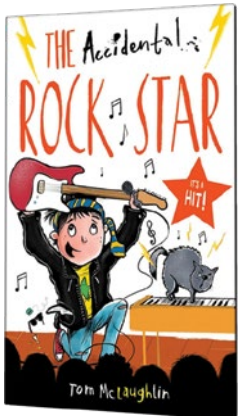

The Paninis of Pompeii

by Andy Stanton

1972

Egmont Books PB £6.99 9781405293853

Age 7 to 9. The first in a brand new series from the fevered imagination of the author of Mr Gum. Welcome to the last days of Pompeii as you've NEVER imagined them before! Join fart-trader Caecilius, his wife, Vesuvius, and their ten-year-old son, Filius, in a bizarre world of accidental gladiators, pizza-emitting volcanoes and the legendary Ma-wol-n-f. You'll meet the household servant, Slavius; thrill at the misadventures of Barkus Wooferinicum and generally have an uproariously hilarious time of it all. Full of ludicrous characters, surreal escapades and outrageous word play - get a load of fun with the Ancient Pompeians!

The Accidental Rock Star

by Tom McLaughlin

2060

Oxford Children's PB £6.99 9780192759009

Age 9 to 11. All Ollie ever wanted was to become famous, and now he's a Rock Star! It should never have happened, but somehow - with the aid of a recorder, keyboard, and very disturbed cat - Hector and Ollie have made a hit single. And now everybody wants a piece of them. They may have always dreamed of fame, but is life on tour all it's cracked up to be? This is the crazy story of how it all happened... Filled with laugh-out-loud silliness, comedy characters, and a musically talented cat.

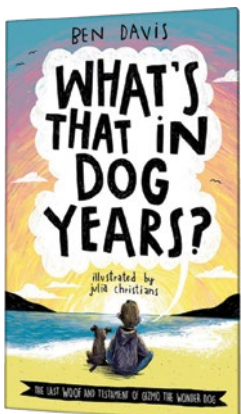

The Last Spell Breather

by Julie Pike

Oxford Children's PB £6.99 9780192771605

Age 9 to 11. A stunning fantasy debut, enter the unique world of the Spell Breathers. Rayne had always known that word magic was powerful, but she didn't know how fragile it was. Not until the day she dropped her mam's spell book and brought the monster plague to Penderith.

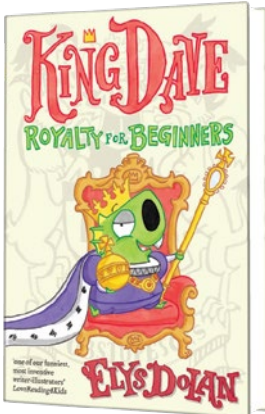

What's That in Dog Years?

by Ben Davis

Oxford Children's PB £6.99 9780192749215

Age 9 to 11. George knows that Gizmo is getting old - after all, he's been around since before George was born and what's that in dog years? - so he writes Gizmo a bucket list. As the pair work their way down the list they have lots of adventures and lots of laughs. This heartfelt, yet hilarious, book is sure to be a hit with readers. Illustrated by Julia Christians.

King Dave: Royalty for Beginners

by Elys Dolan

Oxford Children's PB £6.99 9780192763990

Age 7 to 9. Dave the dragon is throne-sitting while the king is away, but all the power, fancy outfits, and parties have gone to his head. When the castle falls under siege to a potato-wielding queen, the people need a brave hero not a spoilt king. Can Dave remember his knightly ways in time to save the day!

2064

Night Zookeeper: The Elephant of Tusk Temple

by Joshua Davidson

Oxford Children's PB £6.99 9780192764089

Age 7 to 9. When Will accidentally creates a mysterious portal during a trip to the zoo, he's transported into the world of the Night Zoo, and thrust into an incredible adventure. Joined by his friends, Sam and Riya, Will journeys through a new portal and arrives at the Tusk Temple in search of Maji the time-travelling elephant. But the temple is in danger. The only way to save it is for Will to undergo the Night Zookeeper trial - facing leaps over bottomless caverns, impossible puzzles, and an ultimate test in bravery. Can Will pass the trial and save the day, or is this the end of the Night Zoo?

Aspects of Japanese Values. Japan's image in the world, and self-image, is tied up in a tumultuous history, from turbulent medieval ages, to the stable Tokugawa era, to catastrophic world war, to global economic powerhouse, and to a period of stagnation leading into the shattering earthquake of 2011. This book, told from the inside by a distinguished Japanese ambassador, explains the value set and culture that underpins modern Japan. As the Western model of capitalism appears to struggle with civil disorder and crime, there is much to be learnt from the cultural systems of these steadfast islanders.

When Catriona Drouot, a young music therapist, honours an opera diva's dying request to help her son, Umberto Monteverdi, recover his musical gift, she knows it will be a difficult assignment. She had shared a night of passion with the once-celebrated composer ten years before, with unexpected consequences. The extent of her challenge becomes apparent when she arrives at her client's estate on the glittering shores of Lake Como. Robbed of his sight by a near fatal car accident, the man is arrogant, embittered and resistant to her every effort to help him. Still, Catriona sings a siren's call within him that he cannot ignore.

Welcome to Batch Magna, a place where anything might happen. And often does... When Sir Humphrey Strange, 8th baronet and squire of Batch Magna departs this world for the Upper House (as he vaguely thought of it), what's left of his estate passes, through the ancient law of entailment, to a distant relative, Humph, an amiable, overweight short-order cook from the Bronx. Sir Humphrey Franklin T Strange, 9th baronet and squire of Batch Magna, as Humph now most remarkably finds himself to be, is persuaded by his Uncle Frank, to make a killing by turning the sleepy backwater into a theme-park image of rural England.

Welcome to Batch Magna, a place where anything might happen. And often does... The newly married Sir Humphrey who inherited the crumbling estate, has married his true love and settled into Batch Hall where the couple plan a happy future together. But one day a cold wind from beyond their valley visits Batch Magna in the shape of badger baiters discovered in Cutterbach Wood. They are routed, but their defeat entails such disaster that Humphrey and his new wife are driven to the wall, left with no way out but to sell the estate, and their future along with it. And then Miss Wyndham, village spinster and amateur sleuth, rides to the rescue on the 49 bus...

In the spring of 2016, through a genealogy website to which she had whimsically submitted her DNA for analysis, Dani Shapiro received the stunning news that her father was not her biological father. Everything she had believed about her identity was a lie. Shapiro's parents had died when she was in her 20s. With only a handful of figures on a webpage, Shapiro sets out to discover the truth about herself and her history. 'Inheritance' is a genetic detective story; a memoir that reads like a thriller. It is a book about secrets - secrets within families, kept out of shame or self-protectiveness; secrets we keep from one another in the name of love.

Via the writings of Saint Augustine, Carol Harrison explores early reflections on music and its effects on the mind and soul. Augustine establishes a psychology and an ethics of musical perception, which considered together form an effective theology of music. For Augustine, music - both heard and performed - becomes the means by which we can sense and participate in divine grace. Harrison relates music to religious experience and philosophical thought and explores how our thinking about music has changed since late antiquity.

9781788163095 P PROFILE BOOKS
£9.99 Published 04/07/19

How to make friends, influence people and be the (second best) you can be - by being second-in-command. Not everyone can be in charge but, more importantly, not everyone should want to be. After all, supremacy comes with drawbacks (one of which is that everyone wants your job) and influence, authority and power can be found in much more interesting places than behind the CEO's desk. 'Consiglieri' brings together historical examples from Thomas Cromwell to Cardinal Richelieu, conversations with the second-in-commands of Tony Blair, interviews with leaders in sport, business and politics to produce a fresh approach to leadership.

In the second instalment of Lynne Truss's joyfully quirky crime series, our trio of detectives must investigate the murder of a hapless romantic; an aristocratic con man on the prowl; and a dodgy Brighton nightspot... It is summer in Brighton and the Brighton Belles are on hand to answer any holidaymaker's queries, no matter how big or small. The quickest way to the station, how many pebbles are on the beach and what exactly has happened to that young man lying in the deckchair with blood dripping from him? Constable Twitten has a hunch that the fiendish murder may be connected to a notorious Brighton nightspot and the family that run it.

The first book in a charming and witty new crime series from much-loved author Lynne Truss. After the notorious 'Middle Street Massacre' of 1951, when the majority of Brighton's criminals wiped one another out in a vicious battle as the local police force enjoyed a brief stop en route for an ice cream, Inspector Steine rather enjoys life as a policeman. No criminals, no crime, no stress. He just wishes Sergeant Brunswick would stop insisting that perhaps not every criminal was wiped out that fateful day. So it's really rather annoying when an ambitious - not to mention irritating - new Constable starts investigating a series of burglaries...

First published in 1944 'Fell Murder' sees ECR Lorac at the height of her considerable powers as a purveyor of well-made, traditional and emphatic detective fiction. The book presents a fascinating 'return of the prodigal' mystery set in the later stages of the Second World War amidst the close-knit farmerfolk community of Lancashire's lovely Lune valley. The peaceful dales and fells of the north country provide the setting for this grim story of a murder, a setting in fact which is one of the attractive features of an unusual and distinctive tale of evil passions and murderous hate in a small rural community.

Getting a life isn't always easy. And hanging on to it is even harder... Known as 'The Nothing Girl' because of her severe stutter and chronically low self-confidence, Jenny Dove is only just prevented from ending it all by the sudden appearance of Thomas, a mystical golden horse only she can see. Under his guidance, Jenny unexpectedly acquires a husband - the charming and chaotic Russell Checkland - and for her, nothing will ever be the same again. With over-protective relatives on one hand and the world's most erratic spouse on the other, Jenny needs to become Someone. And fast!

The Nothing Girl has grown up. It's life as usual at Frogmorton Farm - which is to say that events have passed the merely eccentric and are now galloping headlong towards the completely bizarre. Once again Jenny struggles to stay afloat in the stormy seas of matrimony with her husband, Russell Checkland, together with an unlikely mix of Patagonian Attack Chickens, Jack the Sad Donkey, and Mrs Crisp's mysterious boyfriend. The old favourites are still around, of course. There's Marilyn the Omnivorous Donkey, Russell's ex-girlfriend Don't Call Me Franny, and the neurotic Boxer, currently failing to deal with butterfly trauma.

9781785785658 H ICON BOOKS
£16.99 Published 04/07/19

Fifty years after Stonewall, critic James Polchin reveals the hidden history of violence against gay men in America. The New York University professor and critic illustrates how homosexuals were criminalised, and their murders justified, in the popular imagination, from 1930s 'sex panics' to Cold War fear of Communists and homosexuals in government. He shows the vital role that crime stories played in ideas of normalcy and deviancy, and how those stories became tools to discriminate against and harm gay men.

Sleeper Cells, Ghost Stories and the Hunt for Putin's Agents. 'Russians Among Us' describes for the first time the story of deep cover spies in America and the FBI agents who tracked them. In intimate riveting detail, it reveals new information about today's spies - as well as those trying to catch them and those trying to kill them. In the summer of 2010 a group of Russian deep cover sleeper agents were arrested, and ten people, including glamorous, red-haired Anna Chapman, were swapped for four people held in Russia. At the time it was seen simply as a throwback to the Cold War. But that would prove to be a mistake.

An introductory book on Thai politics and the rule of law explaining why chronically unstable Thailand struggles to mediate and adjudicate its political disputes. It focuses on the continuities between the pre-1932 and post-1932 periods. As a result of these historical continuities, Thailand is the site of co-existing traditional and modern political legitimacies which manifest themselves in the political thinking and actions of individuals, classes, political movements, political parties and other social groups. The gap between these legitimacies is narrowing, but is still wide and possibly unbridgeable.

We take summer holidays for granted but, back in the 1940s, the picture was very different. War had gripped Britain. But the summer days (with double summer time) seemed to go on forever, war or no war - and British families were determined to make the best of their paralyzed country. In this book, Caroline Taggart shows us how Britons succeeded in keeping up spirits in spite of the constant devastation of battle. It is a revealing and entertaining collection of first-hand reminiscences from people who lived through those six long years. Touching, tragic, occasionally hilarious, it shows the British soldiering on as best they could.

The Interaction of the British and American Empires 1783-1972. Throughout modern history, British and American rivalry has gone hand in hand with common interests. In this book Kathleen Burk brilliantly examines the different kinds of power the two empires have projected, and the means they have used to do it. What the two empires have shared is a mixture of pragmatism, ruthless commercial drive, a self-righteous foreign policy and plenty of naked aggression. These have been aimed against each other more than once; yet their underlying alliance against common enemies has been historically unique and a defining force throughout the 20th century.

For the 80th anniversary of the outbreak of war in 1939, a new history of the 'Phoney War'. At the outbreak of war in 1939, ordinary people were quickly forced to adapt to the realities of a nation under dire threat. In fact, the period from September 1939 to May 1940 was a time of intense political and military activity - the blitzkrieg on Poland, start of the U-boat menace, the disastrous Norwegian campaign, the political manoeuvrings that brought Churchill to power. The author weaves these events into a compelling home front narrative which evokes the fears and dangers but also the humour and the absurdities of everyday life.

Rebellion and Resistance to the Roman Empire. History is written by the victors, and Rome had some very eloquent historians. Those the Romans regarded as barbarians left few records of their own, but they had a tremendous impact on the Roman imagination. Resisting from outside Rome's borders or rebelling from within, they emerge vividly in Rome's historical tradition, and left a significant footprint in archaeology. Rome's history, as written by the Romans, follows a remarkable trajectory from its origins as a tiny village of refugees from a conflict zone to a dominant superpower before being transformed into the medieval and Byzantine worlds.

'Brazil: A Biography', written by two of Brazil's leading historians - Heloisa Maria Murgel Starling and Lilia Moritz Schwarcz - and a bestseller in Brazil itself, is a remarkable attempt to convey the overwhelming diversity and challenges, from its origins to the 21st century, of this huge country - larger than the contiguous USA and still in some regions not fully mapped. The book's major themes are the near-continuous battles to create both political institutions and social frameworks that would allow stable growth, legal norms and protection for all its citizens.

The Downfall of Ordinary Germans, 1945. One of the last major stories on the Third Reich that remains largely untold is that of the extraordinary wave of suicides, carried out not just by much of the Nazi leadership, but by thousands of ordinary Germans, in the War's closing period. Some of these were provoked by straightforward terror in the face of advancing Soviet troops or by personal guilt, but many could not be explained in such relatively straightforward terms. Florian Huber's remarkable book, a bestseller in Germany, confronts this terrible phenomenon.

The Dawn of Tudor England. In his remarkable debut, Thomas Penn recreates an England which is both familiar and very strange. It is the story of the transformation of a young, vulnerable boy, Prince Henry, into the aggressive teenager who'd become Henry VIII, and of Catherine of Aragon, his future queen. At its heart is the tragic, magnetic figure of Henry VII - controlling, paranoid, avaricious, with a Machiavellian charm and will to power. Rich with incident and drama, and with wonderfully drawn characters, this is an unforgettable story of pageantry, surveillance, the thirst for glory - and the fraught, unstable birth of Tudor England. The Battle Between the US and Great Britain for Supremacy in the Modern Middle East. Within a single generation, between 1945 and 1970, America replaced Britain as the dominant power in the Middle East, an extraordinary role reversal which came with very little warning. The discovery of vast oil reserves in Saudi Arabia made America's initial interest commercial. But trade needed political stability; its absence led the US to look more critically at the conduct of its major ally in the region. How would Britain manage both Arab and Jewish positions and still maintain power? In 1943 they came up with an ambitious plan and, in 1944, put it into action.

'The Royal Art of Poison' is a hugely entertaining work of popular history that traces the use of poison as a political - and cosmetic - tool in the royal courts of Western Europe from the Middle Ages to the Kremlin today. The story of poison is the story of power. For centuries, royal families feared the gut-rolling, vomit-inducing agony of a little something added to their food or wine by an enemy. To avoid poison, they depended on tasters, unicorn horns and antidotes tested on condemned prisoners. Servants licked the royal family's spoons, tried on their underpants and tested their chamber pots.

An intimate portrait of a modern gangster, 'Legacy' is an exploration of how organized crime, business, politics, and policing collided in the run up to the London 2012 Olympics. Journalist Michael Gillard reveals the turf war between criminals over a strip of land in the once neglected borough of Newham, destined for regeneration as a key site for London's 2012 Olympic Games. Following the story of one gangster over three decades, we see him emerge from humble beginnings to an untouchable - an upper echelon criminal who used violence and cunning to intimidate and rule over his peers, and built relationships with police in order to corrupt them.

A fascinating, timely and poignantly recounted family narrative that is by turns moving and shocking. On Christmas Night in 1881, John Manley, a poor son of Irish immigrants living in the slums of Leeds, was fatally stabbed in a foolish drunken quarrel. The frightened murderer went on the run, knowing that capture could see him hang. A few generations later, author Catherine Czerkawaska begins to tease out the truth behind her great-great-uncle's tragic death. But she uncovers far more than she bargained for. As she digs up the past, and explores her own heritage and sense of self, she is both angered and touched by what she finds.

Learning the Art of Butchery. After losing her job as a food journalist, Camas Davis felt totally lost. She had spent her career writing about food but she had never forced herself to grapple with how it got to her plate. So she travelled to France to the rolling countryside of Gascony to learn the art of butchery. 'Killing It' is a book about a woman doing something simultaneously extreme and unexpected, yet incredibly simple - a return to a relationship with food we only lost a few decades ago. It is a story about turning your life upside down and starting again, about falling in and out of love, and about understanding what it means to be human.

'...or Dr Johnson's Guide to Life.' Samuel Johnson was a dazzling conversationalist, a polymath and a moralist, whose intellectual and social curiosity were boundless. Yet he was also a deeply melancholy man, haunted by dark thoughts, sickness and a diseased imagination. His writing and aphorisms illuminate what it means to lead a life of integrity, and his experience, abundantly documented by him and by others, is a lesson in the art of regulating the mind and the body. Part portrait of Britain's greatest man of letters, part guide to life, this is a witty and erudite re-evaluation of Dr Johnson's enduring importance and relevance.

What He Thought, and Why It Matters. Adam Smith is now widely regarded as 'the father of modern economics' and the most influential economist who ever lived. But what he really thought, and what the implications of his ideas are, remain fiercely contested. Was he an eloquent advocate of capitalism and the freedom of the individual? Or a prime mover of 'market fundamentalism' and an apologist for inequality and human selfishness? This exceptional book, by a writer who combines to an unusual degree intellectual training and practical political experience, dispels the myths and caricatures and gives us Smith in the round.

A heart-warming, exquisitely funny memoir about one woman's journey from the courthouse to Le Cordon Bleu, and from grief to love. At the moment her mother died, Olivia Potts was baking a cake, badly. She wanted to impress the man she was dating, a cooking enthusiast who would later become her husband. Afterwards, grief pushed Olivia into the kitchen. She came home from her job as a criminal barrister miserable and tired, and baked soda bread, pizza, and chocolate banana cake. Her cakes sank and her custard curdled. But she found comfort in jams and solace in pies, and what began as a distraction from grief became a way of building a life outside grief.

Darrieussecq, in her characteristically ingenious style, makes observations that will bring smiles and grimaces of recognition, and raise important questions. Along with the banal drudgery of childcare, there is the euphoria, the obsession, the terror and the visceral focus on the body. Arguing with 'Saint de Beauvoir', Darrieussecq examines how women as mothers are targeted from all angles. How, she asks, can a woman be more and other than a mother?

Born on the wrong side of the creek, John Buddy Pearson, the son of a slave, has come a long way since his shoeless days. With some schooling, a job and marriage to clever Lucy Potts, his fortunes are looking up. But, unable to resist the lure of women or a fight, he's forced to flee town or face life on the chain gang. John finds himself in Sanford, Florida, and sends for Lucy and the children. There, he discovers a talent for preaching, and, with the support of his wife, becomes pastor of Zion Hope Church, rousing his congregation with his fervent sermons. He is now a pillar of the community, respected and popular.

Karl Rossman has been banished by his parents to America, following a family scandal. There, with unquenchable optimism, he throws himself into the strange experiences that lie before him as he slowly makes his way into the interior of the great continent. Kafka's first novel (begun in 1911 and never finished) is infused with a quite un-Kafkaesque blitheness and sunniness, brought to life in this lyrical translation that returns to the original manuscript of the book.

Posthumously Published Short Fiction. After Franz Kafka's death, in perhaps the most important of all acts of literary disobedience, his executor refused to agree to Kafka's wish that his great mass of unpublished fiction be destroyed. This fiction included not only 'The Castle' and 'The Trial' but also the amazingly varied, chilling and ingenious short works collected in 'The Burrow and Other Stories'. Part of a new project to bring the great out-of-copyright works into Penguin's most famous flagship series.

'The Castle' is the story of K, the unwanted Land Surveyor who is never to be admitted to the Castle nor accepted in the village, and yet cannot go home. As he encounters dualities of certainty and doubt, hope and fear, and reason and nonsense, K's struggles in the absurd, labyrinthine world where he finds himself seem to reveal an inexplicable truth about the nature of existence. Kafka began 'The Castle' in 1922 and it was never finished, yet this, the last of his three great novels, draws fascinating conclusions that make it feel strangely complete.

The dead wreak revenge on the living, paintings come alive, spectral brides possess mortal men and a priest devours human flesh in these chilling Japanese ghost stories retold by a master of the supernatural. Lafcadio Hearn drew on the phantoms and ghouls of traditional Japanese folklore - including the headless 'rokuro-kubi', the monstrous goblins 'jikininki' or the faceless 'mujina' who stalk lonely neighbourhoods - and infused them with his own memories of his haunted childhood in 19th-century Ireland to create these terrifying tales of striking and eerie power. Today they are regarded in Japan as classics in their own right.

A terrifying psychological trip into the life of one Joseph K, an ordinary man who wakes up one day to find himself accused of a crime he did not commit, a crime whose nature is never revealed to him. Once arrested, he is released, but must report to court on a regular basis - an event that proves maddening, as nothing is ever resolved. As he grows more uncertain of his fate, his personal life - including work at a bank and his relations with his landlady and a young woman who lives next door - becomes increasingly unpredictable. As K tries to gain control, he succeeds only in accelerating his own excruciating downward spiral.

Jude Fawley's hopes of an education at Christminster university are dashed when he is trapped into marrying the wild, earthy Arabella, who later abandons him. Moving to Christminster to work as a stonemason, Jude falls in love with Sue Bridehead, a sensitive, freethinking 'New Woman'. Refusing to marry merely for the sake of religious convention, they decide instead to live together, but are shunned by society, and poverty soon threatens to ruin them. 'Jude the Obscure', with its fearless and challenging exploration of class and sexual relationships, caused a public furore when it was first published and marked the end of Hardy's career as a novelist.

£10.99 Published 04/07/19

Much like the fencer who must constantly read and respond to her opponent's tactics during a fencing bout, this debut collection by Mary Jean Chan deftly examines relationships at once conflictual and tender. Fleche (the French word for 'arrow') is an offensive technique commonly used in epee, a competitive sport of the poet's teenage and young adult years. This cross-linguistic pun presents the queer, non-white body as both vulnerable ('flesh') and weaponised ('fleche') in public and private spaces.

This collection of expert lyric poems from Whitbread Poetry Award winner Bernard O'Donoghue movingly animates the scenery and characters of his childhood in County Cork. The mythologies of family are here: the relative who maybe emigrated to America to be 'set upon at his arrival / for the few pounds sewn inside his coat'; the memory of 'Barty, a hopeless speller', caned so hard he dances; the big top come to the town park; the stolen apples raided from the orchard near the old school.

A collection of 30 five-minute plays created and performed by Palestinian children. By turns heart-warming and heart-wrenching, they touch on issues of day to day life such as the occupation, the blockade of Gaza, the human rights violations and the shortages of electricity and other basic needs, but they are also a celebration of Palestine's rich culture and huge creativity. Born of a spirit of surprising positivity in the face of adversity, these plays provide a fascinating insight into the world as viewed through the eyes of Palestinian children, but at the same time there remains something very universal about the human themes explored.

Elizabeth Hardwick dissects the history of women and literature. In her most virtuoso work of criticism, she explores the lives of the Brontës, Woolf, Eliot and Plath; the fate of literary wives such as Zelda Fitzgerald and Jane Carlyle; and the destinies of fictional heroines from Richardson's Clarissa to Ibsen's Nora. With fierce empathy and biting wit, Hardwick mines their childhoods, families, and personalities to probe the costs of sex, love, and marriage. Shattering the barrier between writing and life, she asks who is the seducer and who the seduced; who the victim and who the victor.

The romantic dream of downsizing, giving up the rat race, and living life at 4mph on the inland waterways is proving more and more attractive. But for tens of thousands of people it is not just a romantic dream but an actual lifestyle. Tony Jones is one of those people. He has lived aboard his 50ft narrowboat for over 14 years and in this very practical book he documents what the liveaboard lifestyle is really like, focusing on the practical issues of day to day living for those who want to know what living on a boat actually entails, to see how to manage it for themselves. 2nd edition.

A Light-Hearted Look at Life at Sea. This amusing insight into Cunard's legendary liners begins more than fifty years ago when the author joined the original Queen Mary as an entertainments officer, when a part of the job was 'bumbling' the passengers while keeping a wary eye out for professional gamblers. Paul Curtis recounts the stories of the ships, the antics of passengers and crews, and much more besides. Just turning these pages releases a sniff of the sea and a whiff of champagne. This frank and funny account mixes Cunard history with personal anecdote and vividly reveals how passenger and crew life have changed over the years.

The first and only book that covers the whole range of British ex-servicemen's experiences in the interwar period in a single volume. A month after the Armistice, Prime Minister David Lloyd George promised to make Britain a 'land fit for heroes'. The phrase is now ridiculed, but it was widely believed at the time. This book traces the lives of veterans from the first day of peace to the start of the Second World War. It points to the many injustices ex-servicemen bore, while celebrating the heroism they showed in the face of a world too quick to forget.

How AI Will Shape Our Future. What robot and AI systems are being built and imagined right now? What do they say about us, their creators? Will they usher in a fantastic new future, or destroy us? What do some of our greatest thinkers, from physicist Brian Greene and futurist Kevin Kelly to inventor Dean Kamen, geneticist George Church, and filmmaker Tiffany Shlain, anticipate for our human-robot future? For even as robots and AI intrigue us and make us anxious about the future, our fascination with robots has always been about more than the potential of the technology - it's also about what robots tell us about being human.

One of the world's leading biologists reveals new insights into evolution, the creative processes of nature, and how we can use them to solve problems in life, art, business and science. Darwin's theory of evolution was a monumental achievement, but there was much he did not know. In his survival of the fittest model each step must go forward, life always progressing up the slope towards an evolutionary peak. There is no turning back. So what happens when there is more than one slope, and life finds itself on the wrong one? World-leading biologist Andreas Wagner reveals that life does not, as Darwin believed, only walk - it also leaps.

Getting Past the Past. 'A Primer for Forgetting' is a remarkable experiment in scholarship, autobiography and social criticism. It forges a new 'history of forgetfulness' by assembling fragments of art and writing from the ancient world to the modern, weighing the potential boons forgetfulness might offer the present moment as a philosophical and political force. It also turns inward, using the author's own life and memory as a canvas upon which to extol the virtues of a concept too long taken as an evil. A playful and melancholy defense of forgetfulness by exploring the healing effect it can have on the human psyche, from the author of 'The Gift'.

In 'Stop Being Reasonable', a philosopher and journalist tells seven lucid, gripping stories that show the limits of human reason. From the woman who realised her husband harboured a terrible secret, to the man who left the cult he had been raised in since birth, and the British reality TV contestant who, having impersonated someone else for a month, discovered he could no longer return to his former identity, all of the people interviewed radically altered their beliefs about the things that matter most.

A Conversation. In this book, Alain Badiou argues that we must continue to think philosophically. To accept the atrocities of the 20th century as the end of philosophy is intolerable as it buys into the totalising doctrines of the perpetrators. And today, new ways of thinking are needed more than ever to counter the totalizing effects of globalised capitalism.

Based on a lecture given by the Dalai Lama on the wisdom chapter of A Guide to the Bodhisattva Way of Life, this book comments on Tibetan Buddhist philosophy in a clear and direct way. Its ninth chapter, the section on transcendent wisdom, is known among Buddhist scholars as a challenging exposition of Madhyamika philosophy and difficult to understand without a commentary. This extraordinarily clear discussion of the wisdom chapter is based on an oral teaching given by His Holiness the Dalai Lama before an audience of thousands of Tibetans and Westerners.

Modern Writers and the Struggle for Faith. W H Auden, T S Eliot, William Golding, Elizabeth Jennings, C S Lewis, Flannery O'Connor, Stevie Smith... These are some of the great poets and novelists whose struggles with faith find expression in their works, and who demonstrate the fascinatingly different forms that faith can take in different times and places. Richard Harries considers the work of twenty of these writers, painting vivid pictures of their lives and times. He also provides numerous critically sympathetic insights into the spiritual dimension of their writings.

My Unlikely Year in Poland. Not many Brits move to Poland to work in a fish and chip shop. Fewer still come back wanting to be a Member of the European Parliament. Travel writer Ben Aitken moved to Poland in 2016 to understand why the Poles were leaving. He booked the cheapest flight he could find, to a place he had never heard of - Poznan. This candid, funny and off-beat book is the account of his year in Poland, as an unlikely immigrant. This is a bittersweet portrait of an unsung country, challenging stereotypes that Poland is a grey, ex-soviet land, and revealing a diverse country, rightfully proud of its colourful identity.

Discover the sights and experiences along the path of the Liberation Route in Europe with this inspirational, authoritative and beautifully illustrated Rough Guide, published to commemorate the 75th anniversary of the end of World War II. The guide provides information on all the important sights linked to the Liberation in nine countries - starting in the UK where much of the planning and preparation took place, then Italy, France, Belgium, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Poland, the Czech Republic and Germany. The guide features inspirational colour photography, including portraits of war heroes and thought-provoking historical images.

STAR WARS SO YOU WANT TO BE A JEDI
GITWITZ, ADAM

9781405294713 P EGMONT BOOKS
£6.99 Published 27/06/19

Age 10+. Being a Jedi is hard work. Also, there are bad guys. Lots of bad guys. Who want to kill you. Do you still want to be a Jedi? Well, this book tells the tale of one of the greatest Jedi ever. It's also a retelling of the classic film The Empire Strikes Back. But it is more than that. It also teaches you how to become a Jedi. Maybe you don't need to learn how to levitate or sense your surroundings blindfolded. And maybe you don't want to hear a story about lightsabers and murderous snow creatures and spaceships. But maybe you do want to hear such a story. And maybe, just maybe, you do want to learn how to be a Jedi. Well, in that case, this is the book for you!

Age 5 to 7. 'How to Tell the Time' introduces kids to how we measure time using seconds, minutes, hours, days, months, and years. It gets kids learning to tell and write the time to the nearest five minutes. There is a flap attached to the front jacket that opens to reveal an amazing clock with moveable hands. Quiz questions that relate to the clock are found sprinkled throughout the book, encouraging kids to move the hands on the clock face and tell the correct time. Telling the time is often a subject that children find hard to grapple with. This book is just what those children need, as it tackles the subject in a fully interactive and playful way.

Each year, eight beautiful girls are chosen as Paper Girls to serve the king. It's the highest honour they could hope for...and the most demeaning. This year, there's a ninth. And instead of paper, she's made of fire. Lei is a member of the Paper caste, the lowest and most persecuted class of people in Ikhara. Ten years ago, her mother was snatched by the royal guards, and her fate remains unknown. Now, the guards are back and this time it's Lei they're after - the girl with the golden eyes, whose rumoured beauty has piqued the king's interest.

Bumblebee

Director: Travis Knight | Starring: Hailee Steinfeld | John Cena | Jorge Lendeborg Jr. | John Ortiz | Jason Drucker | Pamela Adlon | Angela Bassett
DVD: 5053083182465 | Blu-ray: 5053083182472
Classification: PG | Film © Paramount Home Entertainment. All rights reserved.

Hailee Steinfeld and John Cena star in this sci-fi action spin-off set in the late 1980s, 20 years before the events of 'Transformers' (2007). When teenager Charlie Watson (Steinfeld) gets an old, yellow VW Beetle for her 18th birthday she soon discovers that it is a Transformer, an Autobot named Bumblebee. As their bond grows they encounter other Transformers, but soon find they are Bumblebee's adversaries and have enlisted the help of Agent Burns (Cena) to try and have him destroyed. Charlie and Bumblebee must then work together to protect one another as well as the rest of the world.

BREAK MY BONES BUT WORDS ...
THAT'S A WHOLE DIFFERENT STORY

◉ A stand-out middle grade fantasy adventure, perfect for fans of Peter Bunzl's Cogheart, Vashti Hardy's Brightstorm, and Alex Bell's The Polar Bear Explorers' Club.

◉ A new take on magic that gives the book a fresh feel in a classic genre.

◉ Touches on a wide range of strong themes, including family bonds, being true to yourself, and learning who to trust.

◉ Beautifully written, with strong characters and convincing world-building.
